ARAFAT IN LONDON

THERE has long been a Palestine Refugee office and organization in London, and nobody would have wished to raise any objections to its existence, although it engaged in many activities that were not philanthropie. It was well known to those who were interested that the Fatah and other terrorist organizations could be contacted through this office. In the summer of 1968 and 1969 it seemed fashionable for some students to spend a few weeks with the gangs in Jordan, and they were occasionally even taken on mock raids into Israel staged across Jordanian waterways that looked sufficiently like the Jordan itself to deceive volunteers and some newspapermen.

It may be doubted that the terrorists at that time expected to obtain any very valuable help from their volunteer friends. They sought to perpetuate the "desert myth," whose greatest exponent was that great writer and poor politician, T.E. Lawrence, and which has long served the Arabe assure years well in the Arabs cause very well in

The opening of an official Office in London now by the Palestine Laberation Organization headed by Yasser Arafat is a different matter. This is a terrorist organization whose sim is murder and sabotage, and which claimed many victims in the early years after 1967. If they are generally unable to do so now it is because of israel's extreme watchfulness, by night and day, at a great cost in effort and manpower, and not because they have changed their targets.

The British Foreign Secretary,
Sir Alec Douglas-Home, has pointed out with a faint air of apology in reply to an Israel protest that after all, various African terrorist organisations also have offices in Legicon. If has certainly been a time-honoured British custom to maintain contact with every side to a political dispute, for you never can tell who will come out on top in the end.

Belief in the power and political probity of the terrorist organizations has also been nurtured in England by sections of the press, and often by the BBC, who have published fanciful terrorist communiques in a totally uncritical manner, as though there were no way of discovering the truth:

Yasser Arafat has been rejected and ousted in turn by every Arab state, and there is no evidence that he has any following today among the Pa-lestinians on the Israel-occupied West Bank, in the area which King Hussein of Jordan recently offered a form of autonomy. These same West Bankers did not hesitate to declare their regard for Egypt's President Nas-ser while he lived, or to mourn him on his death. London may in fact be the last place where Arafat can make much of an impression. But let nobody de-lude themselves that Arafat "is only asking for the return of the territories." He like the other terrorist leaders, has said plainly that his ultimate pur-pose is to dismantle larged as a state in present sovereign form. It is good to know that many British members of Parliament object to the setting up of this office for the dissemination of hatred and threats against a state with which England has normally friendly relations.

Mr. Ehan said that Israel for its part was still insisting on an overexchange of all prisoners held by Israel, Egypt and Syria.

The Foreign Minister also reported on the exchange of correspondence with the British Government on the planned opening of an office of the Palestine Liberation Organization in London. The British Foreign Secretary, Sir Alec Douglas-Home, wrote to Mr. Eban last week that the British Government was not legally empowered to prevent the office opening, but that its staff would benefit from no immunity or special rights of any kind, and appropriate action would be taken if they broke the law. British bugged' Kosygin's telephone

LONDON (AP). — In the early hours of Monday, February 13, 1967, Alexei Kosygin telephoned Leonid Brezhnev in Moscow from the elegant luxury of a Loudon hotel

The Prime Minister of the Soviet Union apparently did not know every word he uttered was being listened to by his British hosts.

Disclosure of this sensational British intelligence operation came from Washington with the publication of the latest volumes of the Pentagon papers.

Today, behind a facade of calm unconcern, British authorities are angry with their American friends. Embarrassed, too, that their bugging of a Soviet leader has exposed them to Moscow's attack.

Kosygin was a guest of the Bri-tish Government from February 6 to 13, 1967, when Harold Wilson was Labour Prime Minister.

Their week-long exchanges covered many matters but the main focus was on a search for a basis of ending the Vietnam war. As Wilson told the story in his memoirs, peace was "in his grasp." But the response of President Johnson's Administration to his initiative proved

Little interest

As the authors of the Pentagon papers told the story, President Ho Chi Minh seemed to display as little interest as Johnson appeared to in negotiations. But in general outline the Pentagon papers broadly supported Wilson's detailed nar-

Kosygin to the evident surprise of Washington at the time, had agreed to send certain proposals handed him by Wilson on to Hanol. These proposals promised a break-through to peace talks.

The Pentagon papers, in a crucial passage, commented: "On February 13 he — Kosygin — was overheard (by telephone intercept) to tell Brezhnev of a great possibility of achieving the sim, if the Victnamese will understand the present situation that we have passed to them; they will have to decide. All they need to do is to give a confidential declara-

The Kosygin phone call was made to supplement, and elaborate on, a revised statement of the U.S. position on a bomb hait. This had been delivered to him by Wilson in an unscheduled call after midnight at his hotel. Wilson himself had only just received it on the hotline from the White House.

Against this background several questions arise. How could so ex-perienced a Communiat politician as Kosygin allow himself to be big-ged? Who carried out the operation? Had it been going on for long? Political and other British antho-

The British Government expressed its concern to the U.S. in the summer of 1971, when the first batch of Pentagon papers were published. British worries were related to the use of various secret messages that had passed between London and Washington over Vietnam.

FIRES PLAGUE EGYPT

CAIRO (Ofns). -GYPT is plagued by fires: in factories, railway stations, tram and bus depots and, twice in one week recently, in Cairo's historic Citadel.

When one of Egypt's luxury Nile tourist boats, the "Osiris" went up in flames two years ago, it looked like an accident and was accepted as such. When Cairo's famous Opera House was burnt out on October 21 last most Egyptians accepted the explanation of a short circuit. Later, however, many took as fact rumours that the place was set ablaze to hide the theft of the priceless antique costumes worn a century ago for the original performance of Verdi's Aida

Then, last December a second Nile boat, the "Kassed Kheir," formerly one of King Farouk's pleasure boats, caught fire and sank Another short circuit? No. Police investigations revealed that members of the boat crew had set fire to the luxury floating hotel to conceal the thaft of £10,000. Two people died in the fire, 54 were injured and 10 were reported missing.

Arson destroys evidence

Since then fires in all parts of the country have been attributed, not as before to pure accident, but to arson by people who wanted to destroy evidence of theft, embezzlement, neglect of duty; or to negligence.

Twenty brand new trams were destroyed

ago. It was the deliberate act of a venal official who had ordered from abroad second-rate vehicles while charging the National Transport Board the price of the first quality, pocketing the difference. Fear of being found out led him to burn the depot. . A railway employee in the Beheira governate burned down the rallway station to conceal the fact that he had stolen £1,000 from the sale of tickets. Investigations showed that a fire in the famous Mehalla el Kubra cotton weaving complex recently was deliberate, to hide the theft of large quantities of cotton

At Shubra el Khalma, on April 30, students of the Shubra el Khaima Agricultural Cooperation Institute set fire to the Dean's car and to boxes of examination papers.

When the first fire broke out in the Gawhara Museum of Cairo's Citadel, early this month, Cairenes suspected, not surprisingly, after the widespread arson cases, that there had been another attempt to cover up theft or embezzlement. Investigation showed, however, that none of the exhibits was missing and that the fire was due to faulty electric wiring in the Palace.

Three officials have been charged with dereliction of duty; the curator of the museum was arrested on charges of negligence and a staff engineer was remanded in custody on a charge of failing to maintain proper super-

People living in the Citadel area reacted angrily when the second fire broke out on June 17, this time in an army depot. Eye witnesses say they threw stones at the fire engines and blamed the Government for "the corruption that is destroying Egypt." The censor killed the story.

Simultaneously with the flurry of fires, an alarming number of thefts, embezzlement, bribery, and other misdemeanours have come to light, mainly in public sector factories and organizations. Over the five years since the June war members of the Relief Organization for the Suez Canal refugees pocketed £30,000 of the relief funds. One man working for the State winter relief organization embezzied £20,000. A member of the staff of the Government Import and Export Company appropriated 140 tons of paper imported for printing school books and sold it for £20,000. He spent the money on a car and living it up with belly dancers.

Crimes sapping economy

It took two pages of Cairo's daily newspaper "Al Ahram" to give a resume of the most serious of these crimes that have been sapping the country's economy for the past few years. Theft, embezzlement, bribery, criminal negligence, dereliction of duty, falsifying books have been discovered in Egypt's main government organizations; in banks, industries, civil defence organizations, cooperatives, Ministries, companies, social welfare,

In the past, the Egyptian Government has been lenient with high-ranking officials, army officers and administrative staff involved in such cases. "Penalties" have often been limited to retirement and in many cases the culprits have merely been transferred to other posts, sometimes even involving promotion.

But now public opinion is outraged and is demanding maximum penalties for culprits, regardless of rank or position. A group of members of the People's Assembly has signed a petition demanding the death penalty for all crimes involving State property and money. The Assembly and the Cairo Secretariat of the Arab Socialist Union, Egypt's only legal political party, have also called upon the Minister of Interior to investigate without delay the causes of the recent fires and say what measures are being taken to cope with the situation. A draft penal code published in July 1966 provided for the death penalty for serious economic offences, and all acts "detri-mental to the country," such as sabotage and dereliction of duty. But so far the death sentence has not been imposed.

The first six months of 1972 have been fraught with tension, unrest, disturbances, strikes and student riots. Egyptian nerves are frayed. The wave of fires and corruption is straining them to breaking as it stood to gain by showing Egyptians their country was vulnerable. The head of the Egyptian Security Department, Maj.-Gen. Salah El Sheikh, has said there had been no evidence of arson.)

("Al Ahram" suggested last week that Israel was behind the fires,

Help from a British naval vessel came on Saturday to 70-year-old Sir Francis Chichester after a collision with a French weather aged a mast and rigging in his boat the Gypsy Moth V. Chairing the ceremony will be University President Avraham Harman. It will be attended by Mr. Samuel Rothberg, Chairman of the Board of Governors; distinguished friends of the University from abroad; and members of the faculty, headed by the outgoing Rector Prof. Jacob Katz. A musical programme will be presented by the newly formed Students Union Symphony Orchestra. Orchestra

Last night, the nine hono-rary doctors and Prof. Bachi were feted at a dinner at the Knesset. Highlighting the evening was Prof. Rabi's address on "Science and Social Responsibility." A reception was given by Mr. Rothberg at the King David Hotel on Saturday night in honour of the End of Academic Year Bachelor's degrees were awarded by the Faculty of Social Sciences; 328 by the Faculty of Science; 68 by the School of Social Work; 810 by the Faculty of Humanities; and 192 by the Faculty of Law. A further 628 Master's degrees, M.D.s, D.M.D.s and graduate diplomas were awarded last month in sciences, humanities.

The Convocation marks the end of the 1971-72 academic year, one of the most active in terms of development in the half-century history of the Hebrew University. Reconstruction of the Mount

Scopus campus — the site of University convocations prior to 1948 and since 1967 — has been proceeding at such an accelerated pace, that this year's programme has been relocated to the Givat Ram campus, since access to the Rothberg Amphitheatre on Mount Scopus is virtually cut for the time being. Other Events

The week of the Convocation is being marked by a number of University events.

The first of these took place yesterday, when the premises housing the Harry S Truman Research Institute on the Mount Scopus campus were officially named the Harry Lebensfeld (New York) Building. On this occasion the University dedicated the Etta and Nathaniel Goldstein (New York) Rotunda at the Building. Early this afternoon a ceremony will be held to dedicate the James Ross (Youngstown, Ohio) Science Research Building at Givat Ram and the James and Edith Ross Residence on Mount Scopus. Tomorrow, the cornerstone will be set for the Charles and Chickie Krown (Los Angeles) International Student Centre on Mount Scopus, with the participation of Mr. Elad Peled, Director-General of the Ministry of Education and Culture.

Harry Lebensfeld Building

The Harry Lebensfeld Building which was dedicated yesterday on the University's Mount Scopus campus houses the Harry S Truman Research Institute which is presently conducting wide-ranging pro-grammes on developing coun-tries and on the Israel-Arab conflict. The developing countries programme is divided into regional studies focusing on Africa, Latin America, Asia, and processes of modernization and development. That on the Israel-Arab conflict carries out basic research, the first such investigations ever, on the Palestinian prob-lem, in order to define the question in political, social and cultural terms. The researchers are also endeavouring to assess the weight of this problem within the Middle East conflict. Six researchers are engaged in this work, heading a total team some 15 strong.

The aim of the Institute's programme is, inter alia, to create a meeting point for all persons working on these prob-lems, both on an academic and a practical level Study days and symposia are held every 3-4 weeks on a particular country, subject or problem.

One of the main features of the Lebensfeld Building is the Institute's library and reading room containing a collection of books and documents on projects relating to international technical cooperation and developing countries. It also houses Martin Buber's private library which was donated to the

Goldstein Rotunda

The large rotunds which forms the spacious entrance hall to the Lebensfeld Building has been named for Etta and Nathaniel Goldstein. It contains an area for exhibitions, a foyer to the auditorium and a reception area.

The rotunda is one of the main architectural features of the Lebensfeld Building, the first new construction built on Mount Scopus after the Six Day War.

ROSS STUDENT RESIDENCE AND KROWN INTERNATIONAL STUDENT CENTRE ON MT. SCOPUS

The student residence complex on Mount Scopus presently ccommodating some 3,000 students (with housing for married students currently being built) will be greatly enhanced by today's dedication of the James and Edith Ross Student Residence and, when it is completed, by the Charles and Chickie Krown International Student Centre. Housing for 120 students will be provided in the Ross Student Residence. The Charles and Chickie Krown International Student Centre will be the focal point for the students' extra-curricular activities.

JAMES ROSS - A prominent American business leader who has been active for many years in Jewish philanthropy, James Ross is a Governor of the University and Vice-President of its American Friends organization. He was awarded an Honorary Fellowship by the University in 1969. The James Ross Science Research Building at Givat Ram and the James and Edith Ross Student Residence on the Mount Scopus campus will be dedicated today.

NATHANIEL. GOLDSTEIN Formerly Attorney-General New York State, a distinguished lawyer and Jewish community leader, past President of the American Friends of the Hebrew University and a Deputy-Chairman of the University's Board of Governors, he was awarded an Honorary Doctorate by the University in 1969.

The rotunda in the building housing the Harry S Truman Research Institute on the Mount Scopus campus, which bears his name and that of his wife Etta, was formally dedicated yesterday.

CHARLES KROWN --- An American philanthropist and Jewish community leader, Charles Krown is a Governor of the University Vice-President of the Western States Region of its American Friends Organization. He has been a major benefactor of the University's development programme. This August, the Charles Krown Centre for Applied Pharmacological Research will be opened on the Ein Karem Medical Campus: tomorrow' the cornerstone will be laid for the Charles and Chickie Krown ernational Student Centre on the Mount Scopus Campus.

HARRY LEBENSFELD New York industrialist and philanthropist, he is deeply devoted to the State of Israel and an ardent supporter of the University. The ceremony yesterday on Mount Scopus marked the formal dedication of the Herry Lebensfeld Building, which houses the Harry S Truman Research

I SRAEL is no longer a developing country. This decision — "which is both good and a little sad" has been made by experts at a small scientific institute in Rehovot, called the Settlement Study Centre. The decision may not affect Israel's general public, but it has made a radical change in the course organized by the centre for students from developing countries in Asia.

Previously, the courses, on problems pertaining to regional develop-ment, contained an exercise in a regional planning project, to which the student had to plan himself. "Up to row, we would take a certain area in Israel, and the students had to plan it." Mr. Jacob Vidislavski, the Centre's administrative director, told me this week. 'We have now come to the conclusion, which is both good and a little sad, that Israel is no ionger a developing country. So it is a little abourd, to tell these trainees from developing countries to plan a part of Israel which is already developed.

This has brought us to the conclusion that the students' projects must be planned in one of the de-veloping countries."

The course was thus split in half, with the first part, the conceptual-theoretical part held in Israel. The second part will now be carried out in an Asian, African, or Latin Amercan country.

The Settlement Study Centre was founded in 1964 as a research and training institute engaged in regional planning and development. Its principal objective is to under-take studies of problems pertaining to regional development. The Centre is sponsored by several Israeli ministries and the Jewish Agency and it is administered by a Board of Directors, representing the sponsoring organizations. Dr. Raznan Weitz, who heads the Centre, acts as Chairman of the Board.

Equality for all in housing

To the Editor of The Jerusalem Post Sir, - When Mrs. Golda Meir enters a university to explain to the student body the facts of aliya (June 16) she may be responding to a problem as important as the immigration problem of housing for young couples and sabras. As a new immigrant my antennae are tuned in to such explanations, receiving them in a confusion of embarrassment and apology, when neither should

There are already enough obstacles standing in the way of an immigrant's integration, without having to add the chagrin of receiving benefits who youngsters who have lived here konger than I have, and who helped make my coming possible, are not equally entitled to.
At the root of this problem is the principle of equality, or equal housing rights for all — a principle which may be more important than all the arguments and explanations interest in peace in the Middle East since 1948 with the help of irresabout immigration. Unless it is fully and all over the world. But the ponsible Arab leaders, for their own respected it will always raise problems of respect for new immigrants concerning the future of the Gaza sponsible for this terrible moral and make his integration that much strip (May 4) were not made in problem if she does not take any more difficult. Living conditions for older residents should never be subordinate to conditions for attracting newcomers. This should be rectified as quickly as possible.

Advice for TV 'Philistines'

Sir, - I have ascertained that Philip Gillon's coastal "Philistines," for whom watching Jordanian programmes is quite difficult most of the time, can obtain a subscription to the monthly Cyprus TV programme schedule. It is available from the Cyprus Broadcasting Cor-poration, P.O.B. 1824, Nicosia. This is produced mainly for the C.B.C.'s own purposes. It's cost is £3.50 sterling, or the equivalent in any West European currency, international money order or the equivalent in Israeli bank notes (though this last method is somewhat illegal and, of course, all notes should be sent by least as many programmes in English as does Jordan, and its reception in the coastal area from Ashgood to excellent.

am not an Israell citizen) I have learned that Egyptian TV has two separate stations, Cairo I and Alexandria, broadcasting in this direc-tion. Alexandria usually offers "lighter" programmes but relatively few in English. There is no programme schedule available in English apart from the English-language "Egyptian Gazette," a subscription to which would prove rather difficult from here.

The Lebanese Government has recently introduced colour TV pro-grammes at least twice a week, but only viewers with colour sets, of course, can watch them, and reception beyond the line Acre-Safed-Na zareth-Tiberias & south is very poor.

First of all, we must understand that Palestine (the geographic entity) is the homeland of two people - the Jews and the Palestinians, who must live together in peace in their own states, independent of each other, but friendly. All people have the right to be masters of their lives in their homeland in an independent state. If anyone who calls himself a Zionist is against such an idea, I must ask him how Zionism can be morally valid if it refuses to others what so many people among us, Zionists all, died, fought and suffered for during so many years.

Experience in the administered areas shows that peaceful coexistence is not only possible and needed, but is a fact. > One of the outstanding works is a huge two-piece fibreglass sculp-ture (on exhibit is the original model owned by the artist) called *Large Two Forms." The work is over six metres long and consists of two twisted tubular forms, juxtaposed, with a space of about a metre between them. These circular shapes twist back and forth, oppos-ing one another and at the same time creating a harmony of form in space. Both pieces are perforated, so that looking through the per-forations from either side one feels the expanse of space recede from the forms. For me, it created a great sense of inner elation. In its position on the terrace, one can walk between the two structures, with a sense of freedom in space despite the huge round masses on either side.

Israel Museum

"Three Piece 3 Vertebrae," belonging to the Israel Museum is displayed on an elevated terrace over-looking the evergreen-covered hills of Tuscany. This bronze, also over six metres long, has that great morphological interplay of organic forms that Moore expresses so profoundly. For me, this sculpture with the wooded backdrop of hills and valleys created a sense of great unity between the different organic elements in nature.

OPEN LETTER TO THOSE WHO PUT THEIR FAITH AND TRUST IN POLITICIANS

RE: THE "ROGERS WITHDRAWAL PLAN" IS THE PRESENT OFFICIAL U.S. POLICY

The political situation in America has become so confusing and precarious, that regardless of what is said and done, ISRAEL CAN AND MUST RELY UPON HERSELF.

Itzhak Rabin's statement that "Nixon did more for Israel than any other U.S. President," (OUTSIDE OF TRUMAN), is a half-truth Previous presidents were not faced with the same Russian buildup in the Arab countries and other circumstances: that made the increased SALE of arms necessary to protect AMERICAN interests in the Middle East.

REGARDLESS OF WHAT IS SAID AND DONE BY ANY PRESIDENT, OR CANDIDATE FOR THE PRESIDENCY, THE ROGERS WITHDRAWAL SCHEME IS STILL THE PRESENT OFFICIAL AIM, AND POLICY OF WHOEVER LIVES IN THE

The following is part of an item that appeared in one of the local

Because when this newspaper inquired of Assistant Secretary of State for Middle Eastern Affairs Joseph Sisco, during a recent White House Jowish press briefing, whether the Rogers Plan was to be considered dead, Mr. Sisco's terse reply was negative.

The Rogers Plan — Richard Nixon's plan put into effect in the Middle East, would destroy Israel. destroy Israel

The 'double talk' of many of the other candidates (Democrats) are no less confusing and irresponsible. The foregoing occurred during a press conference in Los Angeles

Later that same night I attended a meeting in Los Angeles of the Friends of the Hebrew University of Jerusalem where Mr. Sisco was one of the speakers.

Mr. Sisce was again asked, during the question period following his talk, whether the Rogers withdrawal plan was still the PRESENT OFFICE AND ADDRESS OFFICIAL U.S. Policy. Mr. Sisco unequivocally and emphatically replied "YES!" If this is true, then Nixon is talking out of both sides of his mouth, or Mr. Sisco was not telling the truth.

Also, if the supply of arms is used to deceive Israel into believing that Nisson is Israel's "best friend" as Rabin indicated, this could be used to directly or INDIRECTLY impose the Rogers withdrawal scheme to directly or INDIRECTLY impose the Rogers withdrawal scheme on Israel; regardless how much arms the U.S. SELLS to Israel; regardless how much arms the U.S. SELLS to Israel, ISN'T THAT WHAT ROGERS AND SISCO PROMISED SADAT LAST YEAR WHEN THEY WERE IN EGYPT? AND WET THEY SAID: " ISRAEL MUST MAKE PAINFUL CON-CESSIONS AND COMPROMISES".

Second, as output per capita increases by five per cent annually and consumption by only 2.5 per cent, the balance must be pumped out of the economy through taxa-tion. EPA's blueprint requires that the public sector increase its revenue by IL280m, more than expenditure each successive year. "The government, the local authorities and the national institutions currently run a deficit within the do-mestic economy of IL2,000m, a year," Mr. Ronen explained. "By 1976 that deficit must be largely eliminated."

Output will increase by seven per cent annually, private consumption (allowing for the population increase) by 5.7 per cent. This permits a rise of 14 per cent in exports — as against only eight per cent in Even so, imports will expand in quantitative terms (over the whole period) by more than exports, and there will still be a trade deficit in 1976; but it will be down from $1,200m. last year to $950m. Financing the slowly shrinking gap will in-crease the nation's foreign debt to $5,420m. in 1976 - provided consumption can be curbed as planned.

The importance of the foreign capital inflow is revealed in the investment plan. In order to in-crease production by seven per cent a year, an investment of IL39,000m. will be needed during the five-year period. Of this, IL20,000m. will come from abroad, the rest from domestic savings. Savings financed six per cent of all investments in 1970, 15 per cent this year, and must inance 60 per cent by 1976.

Population (excluding the administered areas) will swell from 3,155,000 this year to 3,571,000 in a survey made by a European firm 1976 - this on the assumption that there will be 50,000 new immigrants

NON-SMOKER ACTS IN SELF-DEFENCE

Jerusalem Post Reporter

An irate Haifa man, fed up with the flagrant flouting of the no-smoking ban in the cinema houses, last week took — in his eves at least — a logical step. He removed the no-smoking sign from the theatre.

Mr. William J. Levy of Rehov Bethlehem, sent the sign to The Jerusalem Post, with the following comment:

"Since the Municipality of Haifa fails to enforce no-smoking laws in the city's theatres and the theatre owners do not seem to be disturbed by the inconvenience caused to law-abiding theatregoers, it seems only fitting that signs reading "No Smoking" should be removed from the theatres.

"Therefore I am certain that the Ron Cinema in Haifa where smoking in the theatre is commonplace has no need for this sign — which I removed.

"If smokers cannot be held responsible and fined enough to make them wary of smoking in theatres, then I propose that theatre owners be fined for permitting this hazardous situation to

Two Germans held for Eilat robbery

EILAT. - Two German nationals employed by a German contracting firm in the Timna Copper mines were remanded for 15 days at the Magistrate's Court yesterday as suspects in a series of burglaries which netted IL20,000 in stolen

The two, Otto Macoviak and Wilhelm Berning, both 33, were caught last Friday, following a burglary at a radio and electronics equipment store in the Rassco shopping centre. According to Eilat police, the two activated the store's alarm system and went back to their room, which is nearby. Later, they returned and broke in, taking IL14,000 worth of goods.

Eliat police apprehended the two six hours after the burgiary. (Itim)
